

Haris Linardakis

Haris Linardakis is the IBM Cloud leader, Greece and Cyprus. Within his role, he is helping enterprises of all sizes to assess cloud readiness, develop cloud adoption strategies and power their digital transformation. Throughout his career in IBM, he held business development positions in global technology services and enterprise business unit. As a professional, he is committed to deliver business value through technological advancement and innovative thinking. His main interests include cloud platforms and services, business analytics, internet of things, cognitive applications and blockchain. Haris' academic background includes electrical and computer engineering degree and a PhD degree in telecommunications, both from the National Technical University of Athens.

IBM

Cloud Leader Greece and Cyprus | Blockchain Expert